Jancis Robinson

Pick a white peach up from the grass beneath the tree, slice it, pink-blush skin bleeding a little into silky pearl flesh. Take a grapefruit (pink, preferably), slice and squeeze. Pluck a few lemon balm leaves, crush and scatter. Get the rock salt, grind and glitter. Find a silver spoon, slip it under the slices. Then wave your hand over it, close your eyes, presto and sip. You could get away with this for breakfast, surely? (TC)

- Jancis Robinson : 16,5
- Decanter : 90 points
- Bettane + Desseauve : 90 points

- Jancis Robinson : What an unexpectedly charming, gluggable Bordeaux Merlot! Plenty of pronking red fruit and acidity – it feels as if it has jack-in-a-box springs in its feet! The tannins are merely thought bubbles. Fizzing with raspberries and blood orange. Yum and glouglou. Well done, Roquefort, for making such a cool, modern, innovative wine. You could chill this. Drink young; preferably now. (TC)

Vermouth white

- This golden vermouth has a juicy scent, suggesting peach nectar and fresh ripe pear. Yet, the palate is relatively dry, with honey and chamomile leading into a brisk finish accented with dried thyme and crumbled sage. A hint of pear returns on the exhale. Batch #001, 2024 vintage. Kara Newman
